Terms of use of [SERVER NAME]

TEMPLATE - replace this file. This is a placeholder shipped with JupyDo. The organization running this server must replace branding/terms.pdf with its own terms of use, checked by its legal office or data protection officer. Text in [brackets] must be completed.

1. Who runs this server

[ORGANIZATION], [ADDRESS]. Contact: [EMAIL]. Data protection officer: [DPO EMAIL].

2. Purpose

The server is provided for research and teaching activities of [ORGANIZATION] and its partners. Any other use is not allowed.

3. Your account

Accounts are personal: do not share your password or let others use your account. You are responsible for everything done with it. Report any suspected misuse to [EMAIL].

4. Acceptable use

You must not: use the server for illegal activities; access or try to access data or accounts of others; bypass security measures; run software or store data you are not allowed to use (licences, copyright); store personal or sensitive data without the authorizations required by law and by [ORGANIZATION].

5. Activity logs

For security and to identify those responsible for misuse, the server records which programs each user runs and when, files transferred with the transfer service, and login data (time, IP address). These logs are kept for [RETENTION, e.g. 6 months], are accessed only in case of security incidents or requests of the authorities, and are then deleted. They are processed by [ORGANIZATION] under [LEGAL BASIS].

6. Your data and files

Your files are stored on the server only to provide the service. Keep your own backup copy of important data: [ORGANIZATION] does not guarantee their preservation. When your account expires, your data may be deleted after [PERIOD].

7. Resources

Computing resources are shared: use them fairly. Administrators may stop environments that block the server or break these terms.

8. Violations

Violations may lead to suspension of the account and, where required, to reporting to [ORGANIZATION] and to the authorities.

9. Changes

These terms may change. You will be asked to accept the new version at your next login.